DEATH CLAIMS YOUNG MOTHER

Mrs. Will R. Lander, of Gracey, Buried at River-side.

Mrs. Will R. Lander, of near Gracey, died Sunday at 11:30 o'clock, of tuberculosis. She was a long sufferer from this disease, having been away several times for treatment.

Mrs. Lander would have been 27 years old in March. Before her marriage she was Miss Frances Felix, daughter of Dr. Felix, of Cerulean Springs.

She was a member of the West Union Baptist church of Gracey. Her husband, three children, mother, father, several brothers and one sister survive her.

There were short services at the home and the remains were laid to rest in Riverside cemetery, yesterday.

None of the submarine cases in which American lives were lost has been definitely settled. Before one disaster winds its way through diplomatic channels another offense occurs. The destruction of merchant marine vessels carrying civilian passengers is a species of warfare that should cease altogether.

The Ford peace party was permitted to pass through Germany on board a special train from Copenhagen to The Hague. Each member occupied a numbered seat and was pledged to abide by military rules. They were in Germany eleven hours and reached their destination Saturday. The party was increased to 150 by delegates from Norway, Sweden and Denmark, all going at Ford's expense.

The anti-capital punishment law in Tennessee, passed by Duke Bowers of Memphis, has been held constitutional by the Supreme Court of the State, saving the lives of several convicted murderers, one of them Henry Roberts, of Nashville, a boy who has been given several reprieves awaiting the decision just rendered. The Governor vetoed the bill, but the point raised was that he did not veto it in time and that it had already become an act when vetoed. This point was sustained.

The town of Budapest, Rumania, has a newspaper named Az-Est. Barring a little bad spelling and Turkish Latin, it would seem to be that the paper is trying to call itself "As-It-is."

ASHLEY IS HELD OVER

And Promptly Furnishes Bond For $1,500 Last Saturday.

EVIDENCE IS CIRCUMSTANTIAL

Defense Introduced No Testimony and No Statement Given Out.

The examining trial of L. R. Ashley was held Saturday in police court and after a hearing of several hours the defendant was held over to the grand jury under $1,500 bond on the charge of arson, growing out of an attempt made by some one to burn his shoe store. The evidence was altogether circumstantial. No testimony was introduced by the defense. Mr. Ashley furnished bail and was released.

The accused merchant came here last fall from Ashley, O. He is a young man of pleasing address and lives with his wife and one child on Central avenue. He was not in his store at the time it caught on fire at 10:30 p. m. The store had been closed since early in the evening. It is understood that the defense will be that the fire was started by some one who entered the store after Ashley left. The matter will be investigated by the grand jury that meets the last of February.

Mr. Ashley at the time was about to close a trade to buy a stock of goods in another part of town, in a different line.

He had lived in Texas ever since before the Civil War, but still had a number of friends here, though his visits had not been frequent.

STEEL STRIKE RIOTS.

At Youngstown, O., the rioting of the strike sympathizers resulted in a financial loss of $1,500,000, loss of two lives and injuries to many persons, twenty-two of whom are in hospitals. An attempt to settle the steel mill strike will be made by the State mediator. Effort will be made to deport foreigners implicated in the strike and rioting.

TAYLOR GAVE GREAT BOND

Friends of The Slayer of Claude Knight Stand By Him.

HIS BOND WORTH $100,000

Otho Chiles, Col., in Jail in Default of a Bond of $5,000.

T. J. Taylor, of Lafayette, who killed Claude Knight, on New Year's night, was given an examining trial Saturday and waived examination and was released on a bond of $5,000. The bond was promptly signed by his brother W. N. Taylor, and by a number of his friends, including R. L. Horn, R. S. Wootton, Edwin Garner and others. The bondsmen who volunteered to stand for Taylor's appearance to answer to any indictment found by the March grand jury are worth far in excess of $100,000.

Negro Held For Murder.

Otho Chiles, colored, is in jail in default of $5,000 bond, following his examining trial Saturday on the charge of murder in the killing of Tom Yaukey New Year's night. Bond for Sarah Bell McReynolds, held as accessory, was fixed at $2,500.

IMPERATOR PROGENY

Bring Good Prices at Williams' Hog Sale Saturday.

The sale of Duroc Jersey swine here Saturday was very satisfactory. The 59 head sold were sows and gilts from the splendid herd of John H. Williams, of Penbrook, and the total sum realized was $3,587.50.

The highest price was $256, paid by John N. Sweeney, of Bowling Green, and the lowest was $33, with the average $60.80. Many hog fanciers from other states were here and bought freely.

FRANK J. CANNON

Former Senator on Mormonism, Tonight's Lyceum Speaker.

Many of us had supposed that Mormonism was an issue of the past. To the contrary, we are informed that 2,500 Mormon missionaries are circulating throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, the Hawaii Islands and Europe. They are gaining rapidly and not only in religious matters, but in political circles and in the world of business as well.

Hon. Frank J. Cannon, who speaks tonight, was reared in the seclusion of the Salt Lake Valley in the environment of Mormon circles a thousand miles from any other civilization.

Racially a Mormon, and proud of their achievements in many ways, he never avowed himself ecclesiastically or Mormon.

For years he has been fighting polygamy in the Mormon church. When the Mormons pledged themselves to do better, he interceded for them at a time when they were threatened with disfranchisement. His antagonism to some of their practices however, which they persisted in despite their promises, finally resulted in his ex-communication from the church. As a lecturer he has done much to expose Mormonism.

DR. MOODY PREACHED.

Rev. Dr. J. B. Moody, one of the best known Baptist ministers of the South, preached two sermons here Sunday. The first was at the First Baptist church at the morning service and the other at the Second Baptist church at 7:30 p. m.

Sheriff Jewell Smith has been laid up a week with grip.

BOND ISSUE ENDORSED

Good Roads Association Holds Enthusiastic Meeting Yesterday Afternoon.

ENGLAND LOSES BATTLESHIP

County To Vote on a Bond Issue of $400,000 in The Near Future.

The Christian County Good Roads Association met at the H. B. M. A. yesterday afternoon, with a big crowd on hand. The purpose was to discuss the proposed bond issue of $400,000 to build and repair turnpikes in the county. Great enthusiasm prevailed and the proposition was endorsed by unanimous vote.

It is proposed to take the vote not later than Mar. 20.

Another meeting will be held Thursday afternoon to further the plans and decide on details. Committees have been appointed on publicity and other lines of work. Holland Garrott presided over the meeting.

DEATH DUE TO DROPSY

North Christian Farmer Passes Away After Long Illness.

Timothy Brown died Saturday at his home near Crofton. He had been suffering from dropsy for about two years, but was in bed only a short time. Mr. Brown was about 70 years old. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. O. O. Burkholder. The interment took place in the Clark burying ground, three miles East of Crofton, Sunday.

TOBACCO PRICES

Show Some Improvement on Loose Floors.

Prices on the loose floor tobacco market last week showed some improvement with total sales 234,635 pounds, making nearly 1,000,000.

Quotations ranged: Common lugs, $2.50 to $3.50; good lugs, $4 to $6.50; common leaf, $5 to $6.50; medium leaf, $7 to $10.

The average price on last week's sales was $5.18 per hundred as against $4.73 the week before. This caused a corresponding rise in the season's average, bringing it to $1.53 from $1.43 the preceding week.

Prices now being paid are said to range from 10c to 50c per hundred higher than were ruling the same grades last year.

Some better weed is now appearing.

BACK FROM "EDEN."

Bangor, Me., Jan. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Estes, who have just returned after a two months health cure in the Maine woods, during which time they lived as "Adam and Eve" declare that they are in much better health than when they went into the wilderness on the upper Kennebec river last October.

The twenty-six year old couple entered the woods, clad in nothing but tights and took nothing with them but their knowledge of woodcraft and animals. They made their first clothing of birch bark, constructed a rude hut and proceeded to trap their own food. Four deer were captured during the two months and clothing was fashioned from the skins. They made nets of vines in which to catch fish. Their fire was made by rubbing two sticks together, a method used by the cave-men.

Sudden Death of Infant.

Alice, the 3 months-old daughter of Mr. Oscar Jones, of near Antioch, died suddenly Saturday night.

BAD START FOR ALLIES

Last Position Abandoned With Loss of One English Soldier.

ENGLAND LOSES BATTLESHIP

Believed Germans and Bulgars Are Planning Great Assault on Saloniki.

London, Jan. 10.—The remaining positions on Gallipoli peninsula held by the allies have been abandoned with the wounding of only one man among the British and French according to a British official statement issued last night.

This news has been expected for several days for the retirement of the troops from Anzac and Suvla bay three weeks ago left no strategic advantage to the retention of the tip of the peninsula.

Nevertheless, the news will be received with a pang of regret by the people of the British Isles, as well as the colonies.

Another pang to the British public will be caused by the announcement of the loss of the battleship King Edward VII, which has been blown up by a mine. The brief official statement on the incident does not reveal the scene of the action and merely says that the disaster occurred in a heavy sea, despite which the entire crew was saved before the ship went down.

The King Edward VII represents an investment of nearly 1,600,000 pounds, and was one of the finest of the last class of dreadnaughts, corresponding in general to the American ships of the New Jersey and Nebraska type, and was only slightly older than the Natal, which was sunk by an internal explosion about a week ago.

On the west and east fronts there have been no developments of large importance over the week-end. The German communication announces that the Germans have completed the recapture of positions on Hartmanns-Wellerkopf, taken by the French a few days before Christmas.

Greek correspondents continued to assert that the Bulgarians and Germans are hastening plans for an attack on Saloniki, but the Austrians are fighting hard against the Russians and Montenegrins and the Bulgars are largely occupied in a resolute attempt to reach the Adriatic, from which they were only forty miles distant at El-bassan, Albania.

ARMY OFFICER KILLED COASTING

Lieut. Joseph E. McDonald Loses Life at Ft. Yellow-stone, Montana.

Livingston, Mont., Jan. 10.—Lieut. Joseph E. McDonald, 28th United States cavalry a native of Alabama, was killed by a snowslide yesterday while coasting with four companions at Mammoth Hot Springs, near Fort Yellowstone, in Yellowstone National park.

All five were caught in the slide. McDonald's companions were able to free themselves, but the lieutenant remained buried for forty-five minutes before his companions could release him. He was unconscious when taken out and died last night.

Lieut. McDonald was born in 1890 and was graduated from West Point in 1908. He was a son of Major Joseph E. McDonald, stationed at Manila.

Matt S. Cohen, Commissioner of Agriculture, on January 8 betook himself to Cincinnati, O., where he was married to Mrs. Laura Mayfield, of Mayfield, Ky. She was the widow of C. W. Mayfield and is wealthy. The bride was in Cincinnati on a visit to her daughter, Mildred, who is a student in the Conservatory of Music.

CARING FOR THE BROOD SOWS

Give the Animals Good, Hearty Ration, Strong in Protein and Not Rich in Fat-Making Foods.People will tell you that a brood sow should not be too fat at farrowing time. That's true; but that doesn't mean that she should be starved to a shadow. She should be fed a good, hearty ration, strong in protein, and not rich in the fat-making foods. She should have plenty of exercise. She should be in that thrifty condition which makes her as strong as a bull-but not fat.There's no danger of her having too much bone and muscle. The heavier she is the better—provided that too much of her weight is not fat. An all-corn ration robes her of the strength she will need at the time of her trial, and fills the cavities of the body with fat. Then she will be fat and lazy and will kill her pigs by lying on them.
Or she may never be able to bring them forth. Or her appetite for bone and muscle-forming foods may be so abnormal that she may eat them up.But if she is kept from being too fat by the simple method of starvation, she will not give the litter the proper amount of milk.If the sow becomes constipated before farrowing, as some sows do, certain salts may be given in the slop for three or four feedings—just enough so that the taste will not repel the sow and keep her from eating.At farrowing time occur the most of the pig losses. Some of them come from the absence of the owner when the pigs arrive, and some from his presence. The sow should be carefully watched, but she should not be disturbed.
In other words, no dogs should be allowed anywhere near, and she should not become aware of the presence of those who watch her. A good brood sow stealing her nest in the grove or fields will on the average bring to the feed trough a better litter than the one which is fussed over by a solicitous owner. Yet she sometimes needs help. Combine the merits of the two methods.

EXPENSE OF KEEPING HORSE

Cost is Much More Than Many Persons Usually Believe—Estimate Placed at $75 Yearly.The cost of keeping a horse for a year on a farm is much more than many persons usually suppose. An estimate of such cost it was found that a horse weighing 1,200 pounds and kept at moderately hard work costs $75 a year for board. Foods, of course, are usually higher in some places than others, where it would not cost so much.Taking one horse with another, as kept on our farms, and allowing for the period of idleness in the winter season, the cost to keep would not be more than $50. Larger horses would, however, cost relatively more than those of lighter weight.

PARTITIONS IN HOG TROUGH

the owner much trouble in feeding.
Where there is nothing to prevent the the older and bigger animals.The trough shown in the illustration sides were 4 inches high, partitions 6

I used 1 by 8, and at the lower edge of these nailed strips of 1 by 4 to keep the slop from wasting, writes Odon Tyson of Lee's Summit, Mo., in Missouri Valley Farmer. The partitions were spaced 10 inches apart.
They were cut sloping across the top,
and from the bottom of slope to bottom of trough is 8 inches.

ERADICATE LICE ON CATTLE

Frequently Serious Pest in Winter.
Any of Various Dips Will Prove Quite Satisfactory.

Lice on cattle and young stock are frequently a serious pest in winter.
Any of the various dips advertised or sold for this purpose are effective.
They can be put on with a sponge or brush and worked in thoroughly to the skin, but it is not always safe to wet an animal all over in cold weather.
Kerosene and lard rubbed in from horns to the tail is a safe and sure remedy. An even better one is to use powdered sulphur. Rub it in well with the hand and repeat in two weeks.
There is no danger from using this.

BENEFITS OF RIPENED CREAM

Makes More Butter, is Easier to Churn and Product Has a Better Flavor—Use of "Starter."Ripened cream makes more butter than cream not ripened; it churns more easily and the butter has a better flavor. Butter made from sweet cream is quite flat in flavor and aroma.
A good flavor in butter makes a price difference of two to three cents a pound. This flavor is simply a result of ripening.To ripen cream, place it at a warm temperature for 24 hours or more.
During this period the bacteria bo-

Cream-Ripening Vat.

come very numerous and produce various chemical changes, giving rise to products of special taste and aroma.
It makes a great difference what species of bacteria the cream contains at the outset. One class produces the flavor of high-grade butter, while a second class does not affect the flavor.The bacteria present in greatest number are those of the first class.
The correct temperature of ripening, not far from 60 degrees, favors the growth of this class, and results are generally satisfactory.Butter made in winter is almost always inferior to that made in June

Tank for Cold Water.

The difference in flavor is largely due to the ripening and the presence of different bacteria.The use of "starter" to inoculate cream with the proper bacteria gives more uniform results. This is made by growing the right kind of bacteria in sterilized milk, or simply by taking a lot of milk from the cleanest dairy that can be found, keeping it in sterilized vessels and allowing it to sour naturally.
The practical results of the last methods are very satisfactory.Perhaps many farmers were troubled last summer with calf scours. This trouble is caused by a deranged digestive system, which in turn may be caused by various conditions. Chief among them and one that can readily be guarded against is unclean feeding pails.Another common cause is a change from sweet to sour milk or vice versa.
The milk should be either sweet or sour. Souring or half-sour milk often brings on scours.Feed the calves regularly. A little bran or crushed grain, fed dry, immediately after their milk, is desirable.Successful herdsmen claim that a tablespoonful of pure dried blood mixed with the milk at each feeding is partially effective in preventing and in relieving cases of scours. Four tablespoonfuls of castor oil every two days until the trouble disappears is one of the most valuable remedies for scours.—Press Bulletin, Ohio State University.

DOG DECLARED A WONDER

Great Retriever, It Is Asserted, Will Bring Horse Home If Ordered to Do So.

The most remarkable characteristic of the Chesapeake is his retrieving. He has been developed for retrieving ducks, and naturally should be well fitted for that purpose. But it is my firm conviction that he would retrieve a horse if told to do so, bringing it to you in pieces if he couldn't beat it home. The one definite aim in breeding him has been to make the best possible retriever, and if ever a breeder's aim succeeded it has succeeded in this instance, says a writer in Otago.

A Chesapeake will fetch anything on earth that is within his physical powers to move or handle. If you will take him to the water and do not throw anything in, for him to go after, he will bring you oysters on his own account. He brings bricks and stones and clubs joyfully. Old Beaver, long a prize winner and now just about to leave us for the happy hunting ground, has worn his teeth down to stubs, like an old bear's teeth, carrying hard objects. Almost any Chesapeake will show the same condition of mouth.—Exchange.

Wireless Telephony.

Wireless telephony means that the billion and a half people living on this planet have been virtually gathered into one room where they can listen to one man's voice. The human race has snuggled together like a family about a fireside on a cold evening and can chat comfortably with one another. When print became popular it was said that the human voice had lost its power. But we see, on the contrary, that its range has been extended indefinitely. The vibrations of the air expelled from the mouth, too faint to be felt and speedily quenched, can be magnified and borne by the waves of the frictionless ether to the ends of the earth, there to be reconverted into audibility. The sound passes through the silence as the rays of the sun can pass through a lens of ice and set a piece of wood on fire.

Goat Battles With Buffalo.

A shaggy-haired goat overestimated his fighting ability at Washington park zoo at Portland, Ore., when he wandered into the buffalo paddocks and gave battle to one of the big male buffaloes. The consequence was that the goat's battered remains were taken to the city incinerator for cremation. The goat got into the buffalo pen. The leader of the herd took exception to the invasion and charged. The goat, instead of running, turned about and, putting down his head, met the enemy. The two animals clashed with a thud and the goat was knocked about twenty feet, with nearly every bone in his body broken.

No Bacteria in Old Books.

There is virtually no danger of disease being spread by the books in libraries—unless, of course, they have been used recently by persons having infectious diseases. While cleaning the library of Yale University the dust from the books was chemically analyzed. About half of it was found to be mineral matter, while the other half was paper fiber, wood fiber and molds. No bacteria, such as are common in the mouth were found.

SALMON WITH BOILED EGG

Delicious Trifle for Hostess to Serve to Guests at Formal or Informal Luncheon.

A salmon sandwich is a tempting article of food, and should be half mixed with chopped boiled egg and very thin slices of olives and pickles. The wise hostess will make two different kinds of sandwiches, some with the mixture moistened with vinegar or lemon juice, others without, for many persons cannot eat acids. Practically all meat sandwiches are extremely rich, and strong condiments are used in the filling, especially mustard and catsup. While white meat makes a delicate sandwich, darker meats mixed with mayonnaise and other relishes are more appetizing in every way. When hot sandwiches are served at a noon-day luncheon at home, the contents of the sandwich should be placed between the layers of bread and fried, or the bread toasted and covered with a cooked meat filling, then covered with buttered toast and served hot.

ECONOMY IN THE LAUNDRY

Savings May Seem Small, but Amount to a Lot in the Course of a Year.

Soft water for use in laundry work, saves soap, clothing, time, energy and money.

Buying soap by the box is more economical than buying it by the quarter's worth.

Removing the soap from the box, and piling it in such a way that it will dry, causes it to wash away less rapidly, and therefore to last longer, than if not dried.

Having a firm, substantial wash-bench, of a height suited to the worker, so constructed as to hold the tub securely in position, saves time and energy.

A good stationary wringer, or one which is so made as to be clamped securely to the tub, is a necessity. When through using the wringer, loosen the screws to relieve the pressure on the rubber rollers; wash clean, wipe dry and put it away where it will keep clean until needed. Occasionally cleaning the wringer with kerosene, and the washing with soapuds, rinsing and drying tends to keep it in good condition.

Unique Salad and Dessert.

Extra mayonnaise is served in a half lemon skin that has been relieved of the pulp and had a slice cut from the end so it stands upright. It may also be covered with a fluted paper cap.

The yolks of hard-cooked eggs may have pepper, salt, olive oil, a dash of Worcestershire sauce added to them and mixed to a paste, then formed into small balls, roll them in powdered nuts and drop them into the salad, using the rings of white for the garnish on top.

For the simple home luncheon the ordinary pancake may do duty for dessert.

Delecto Fruit Salad.

Halve and seed one cupful of California white or red grapes and mix with one cupful of stoned cherries, two oranges cut in small pieces, one chopped tart apple, two sliced bananas, one-half cupful of chopped celery and one cupful of chopped nuts. Chill thoroughly and serve on lettuce with the following dressing: Mix one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, two tablespoonsfuls of melted butter, one well-beaten egg, the strained juice of one lemon and two cupfuls of boiling water together. Stir over the fire until the mixture thickens, then cool.

Kitchen Hints.

If an ordinary white pin is held between the teeth while peeling onions it will do away with forced weeping.

If you want only a little bread crumbs and are not a provident housekeeper with a jarful ready rub two stale bread crusts together over a bowl until enough is rubbed off. This saves time and trouble of getting out board and rolling pin.

Corn Puffs—Luncheon Dish.

Mix one and one-half cupfuls canned corn with one cupful milk and yolks of two eggs beaten; stir one rounded teaspoonful baking powder into one and one-half cupfuls pastry flour and one-half teaspoonful salt. Fold in the beaten whites after the other ingredients are thoroughly mixed. Bake in gem pans 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

Fried Rice.

One cup of rice in three pints of boiling water. Add pinch of salt and boil rapidly for half an hour. Drain thoroughly in colander, then put the rice two inches thick into dish, put a weight on top and allow to become cold. Cut into slices and dip alternately into crumbs and eggs, and fry in deep hot lard. This is nice served with meat gravy or syrup.

When Food Is Too Salty.

It is an easy matter to draw too much salt in the potatoes or peas. To remove the salt stretch a clean cloth over the vessel and sprinkle a table spoonful or more of flour on the cloth and allow the contents to steam. In a short time the flour will have absorbed the salt.

Oyster Cocktail.

Select six small oysters, season with lemon juice, one teaspoonful of table sauce and add salt sparingly; serve in grapefruit.

Helburn, former Mayor of Middles-boro and candidate in 1911 for the Reed Alf Farmer, a miner, at Bosworth

Saturday, while Farmer and F. L.
Renebaum, superintendent of the Winona Coal & Coke Company, were struggling on the ground in front of the camp store. "The trouble started when the miner began abusing a woman, Jane Wood, as she passed in front of the store. He had been drinking, and his loud words and the woman's protestations attracted Renebaum, who ran out and told Farmer to let the woman alone. After a few words a shot was fired at Renebaum, who rushed upon the miner and tried to disarm him, but the miner was about to shoot him."

CRUMP LOSES CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Former Memphis Mayor and Commissioner Utley Still Under Suspension.

By the ruling of the Tennessee supreme court Saturday, in which it refused to vacate the order of December 29, enjoining former Mayor Crump and Commissioner Utley of Memphis from taking office under the new terms to which they were elected, which begin January 1, the two Memphis officials will remain out of office until the ouster case comes up for final decision.

Crump and Utley were suspended from office November 3 last, on their "legal admission" of charges made in the ouster proceedings, based chiefly on the alleged nonenforcement of the state-wide prohibition law. The order affirmed by the supreme court restrains the former mayor and commissioner from reassuming office pending final adjudication of the ouster suits, which are now before the supreme court on appeal, and which will be heard in full January 20.

THE AMBER BEADS

By ELOREDGE HOLT.

He was a traveling salesman for a toothpowder concern.

She was a prescription clerk in a cut-rate drug store. Besides that she had a creamy, fair complexion and light brown eyes, shaded, it is true, by a pair of rimless, gold-bordered spectacles. But that was because the light in the pharmacy of the cut-rate drug store was not at the best and there were many prescriptions to fill.

He had met her at the school where they made young men and boys and there a young woman into druggists, so they both had their diplomas and would some time have a little drug store of their own, and they would not have to keep a clerk, because, no matter what happened, Alice—that was her name—could manage to tend store for a few hours a day. You know there is a regulation that says that every drug store must have a graduate pharmacist in constant attendance during the day and part of the night to put up prescriptions.

Of course one man cannot be at the post all of the time. Alice and Paul—that was the toothpowder agent's name—had it all arranged that they could save money from the first, for since she was a registered pharmacist she could substitute in the store for the few hours that Paul would need to take off. Oh, yes, they were very matter of fact and businesslike about it and had talked over their plans for the future quite frankly.

In the meantime Paul was vending toothpowder, trying to save enough money to buy his own little drug store and by careful skimping, with what savings Alice could add, it would take two years before this purchase could be made. A long time, you think? Yes, but if you had seen the steady, soft light in Alice's bespectacled eyes and the lovely blush that came into her creamy, pale cheeks when those eyes met Paul's, you wouldn't have wondered that he was willing to wait.

Moreover, to Alice and Paul, marriage was, besides being a beautiful adventure and the one and only romance, something of a business undertaking as well.

And there was no reason whatever to be rash and hasty about it. Still, at times when Paul was on the road with his suitcase full of samples and work grew very heavy at the cut-rate drug store Alice's brown eyes grew moist and she had to take off the gold-bordered spectacles and wipe away the tears, tears not of discontent, but just of loneliness and little impatience. For Alice's mind was full of imagining her wee home—it would probably be a little flat over the drug store to begin with—and two nights a week she was taking cooking lessons at the Y. W. C. A. so that she would be able to concoct puddings as well as pastries. And Paul sometimes snarled a little at the necessity, that made him wait so long, and when sales were not as good as usual—that meant smaller commissions for him—he would write a letter of impatience to Alice.

One particularly lovely autumn day Paul sauntered into the cut-rate drug store. He had unexpectedly come to town and he wanted to surprise Alice. Alice dropped the test tube she was holding when she heard his voice, and slipping out of her all-enveloping blue apron, ran out to the counter outside. "I've had a hurry call to New York Alice," he told her, "and I've only a few minutes between trains. But I stopped over to see you. And, say Alice, I've had a specially good run of luck. That new patent cap top tooth powder makes a big hit. And I am going to be extravagant. I want to get you something from the big city. I can't afford the engagement ring I ought to have got you, but tell me what piece of jewelry that doesn't cost very much—say ten or fifteen dollars—you would most like."

Alice clasped her hands before her and thought for a second.

"A string of amber beads," she said at last. "I have always wanted them. Paul's face showed his disappointment. Somehow he had always associated amber beads with the fact that some old woman he had known about wore them around their necks to ward off chills and fevers. If Alice had sold a gold-link bracelet, with a heart-shaped padlock and a key, he would have been entirely satisfied with her choice. But Alice stuck to her pie for amber beads. "I love the color of amber so," she said, "and all my life I have dreamed of having them sometime."

In ten days Paul returned one morning, and, going straight to the cut-rate drug store, found Alice and gave her her beads. Again there was short connection between trains, and in a few minutes he was off again. "I don't really like those beads," he said, "and can take them back and get the money if you say so. I'll tell you frankly that they cost twelve dollars, got them at a pawnshop I happened to be passing. I tried to sell the man down, but he wouldn't listen to a cent less. You might take them to some regular jeweler and find out whether I was honest or not. Maybe they are only glass."

Alice held the beads up to the light and revelled in the soft, golden radiance that shone through them. "I am sure they are real amber," she said. "They are beautiful. But perhaps you had better take them back. Twelve dollars would be just so much more toward the store."

"That's right," said Paul, "but I'm so India git. They're what you wanted and they're what you shall have." And in nothing minutes he was off with his suitcase full of samples for the next train.

At noon that day Alice hurried her sandwich and hot chocolate, hastily taken at the fountain counter of the cut-rate drug store, and with her beads in her hand she went to a neighboring jeweler—not the best in town, but one who was reliable.

"I am pretty sure they are real amber," she said, "still if it would not be too great a favor may I ask you to examine them and tell me what I should have paid for them?" The jeweler looked at the beads, but apparently shared none of the joy in their golden radiance that Alice's eyes indicated.

"Where did you get them, may I ask?"

"Oh, not in town. It was in some pawnshop in New York. I suppose we should have known better than to trust such a place. But they were so bright and pretty I thought they were real amber."

The jeweler eyed her narrowly. "Your idea is to sell them?" he asked.

"No, I just wanted to see what they are worth. I thought you would tell me."

The jeweler lowered his voice. "I can't tell you just the maximum price that you might be able to get for them. Of course in Europe they would pay more, but traveling is dangerous. I would be willing personally to pay you five thousand dollars for them, perhaps a little more. Of course, if you went to New York you might get more, but then there would be the risk, and you might find a dishonest dealer."

Alice thanked the jeweler and fairly staggered out of the store, clasping her precious beads in her hand. She hardly knew whether the man had been teasing her, making fun of her glass beads, or whether she had been insane, or at least dreaming. She made her way to the most conservative and most expensive jeweler in town, unmindful that the clock on the corner pointed five minutes to the time that she ought to be back at the prescription counter.

Ten minutes later she was in the darkened examination room with two jewel experts. She seemed to come to a full realization of the situation when she heard one of them explaining: "If you will look through this bead you will see the first letter. Now hold this bead up to the light and see the next letter—marvelous, marvelous. I need no further proof. They are royal amber, one of a few strings of beads that Louis XV had made for his favorite. They are found only in the largest museums now. Perhaps the full value of this string has not been known for a hundred years or more. I will be willing to let you have six thousand dollars for the beads. Of course in Europe they might fetch more. If you wish to accept my offer we will have the check sent to your bank tomorrow or give it to you personally. Of course, in making such a large transaction we have to go through the form of consulting the treasurer of the concern. He is out at luncheon at present."

Somehow Alice got back to her post.

She was 15 minutes late—unheard-of breach of office regulations—but she did not explain. That afternoon she sent a telegram to Paul asking him to return at once to hear the good news. And that is why Alice and Paul didn't have to wait two years. In fact, they waited only long enough to find just the coziest little drug store for $5,000 that you could imagine. And the amber beads—when they have been restrung and properly mounted—will be on exhibition in one of the big museums, although to any but an expert they look much like any other string of amber beads.

Prevarication Hard to Beat.

The two commercial travelers were boasting to each other of the merits of the respective fireproof safes for which they were agents. "I guess," said the first, "that we've given our safe 'some' test, and I reckon that our best trial was when we heaped up a collection of combustibles round it which took a week to burn out. Inside the safe was a little dog provided with food and water. At the end of the week we raked away the embers and opened the door of the safe which had been in the middle of that blazing bonfire for a week. Out jumped the little dog, well and happy, wagging his tail with delight. "Yours is a good safe," said the other, "but it isn't in the same block with ours. We adopted the same test precisely, and when we'd raked away the embers and come to the safe at last we opened the door and our little dog—" He paused dramatically. "Was dead," interrupted his rival. "Yes, sir," was the reply. "You've hit it. Frozen to death!"

GETTING NUTS FOR COLONEL

Gardener is Coolly Informed by Stranger He Was Gathering Nuts for Kernel, Not for Shells.

Some time back a certain colonel's gardener was going through the woods belonging to his employer when he saw a man busily gathering nuts. As the colonel had given strict orders that no one was to be allowed to pick the nuts that year, as had hitherto been the case, the gardener said to the man, "You'll have to clear out of this. I've got orders to keep all these nuts for the colonel this year."

"It's all right," replied the man: "that's what I'm getting 'em for."

Satisfied by the answer, the gardener passed on. Meeting the same man a week after the occurrence, he said: "Look here, you were not getting those nuts for the colonel at all."

"I tell you I was," was the emphatic reply.

"But I know better. The colonel told me that he gave neither you nor anybody else any authority."

"Well, I knew jolly well I was getting them for the kernel; I didn't want the shells."—London Tit-Bits.

HAD A FIT.

"The paper says that when the present was given to him he responded fitfully."

"Fittingly" is a good word; he had a spasm while he was talking."

Getting at the Facts.

Wife (after the honeymoon)—Why did you deceive me as to your income?

Husband—I didn't, my dear.

Wife—Yes, you did. You told me you were getting $50 a week when you asked me to marry you.

Husband—You evidently misunderstood me. I said my position was worth $50 a week, and so it is, but for reasons best known to the hose, he gives me only $10.

Fatal Fall.

"So you have a Steeplejacks' union in this town?"

"Yes."

"How many members?"

"Only two now. There were three at first, but there was a high wind one day and the third member dropped out."

Maybe.

"Montmorency, can your fiance cook?"

"No, mother, but she can paint beautifully on china. She can paint the most natural grapes and peaches you ever saw."

"Well, maybe looking at them will appease hunger when there is no dinner ready."

Time's Changes.

Black—Someone just told me that Miss Gayway's mother won much fame for the delicate yarns she used to spin in olden days.

White—And Miss Gayway wins much fame for the undulate ones she spins in modern days.—Judge.

Delirious.

The Wife—Oh, doctor, I think Henry is much better this morning. He took my hand just a minute ago and called me his own 'little tooty wootsy.'

The Doctor—The case is more serious than I thought. It's a very bad sign when a patient becomes delirious.

Hereditary.

"And when you grow up," said the visitor to five-year-old Eloise, "I suppose you will get married."

"Oh, there's hardly any doubt about it," answered the little niles. "Everybody says I'm just like mamma, and she's been married three times, you know."

JOKE ON CURIOUS NEIGHBORS

Young Wife Was Scolding Curly-Haired Black Pup and Not Her Husband, as Was Supposed.

His name was Charlie and they had been married only a week. She was particularly affectionate and their thin-walled apartment concealed little of import from curious neighbors. One night the neighbors gasped in amazement and then suspended all other things to listen, says Columbus Dispatch. "She" was speaking in strident, angry tones.

"Charlie," she was saying imperiously, "if you ever come into this house again and muddy my carpets with your feet, right back home you go!"

"Gosh! A divorcee," breathed the next-door man to his wife. They spent most of the night wondering whether the newlyweds could live together another week.

"Well, he had no right to spoil her carpets," commented the wife with a finality that ended the discussion.

Next morning a curly-haired black pup was sauntering over the lawn of the newlyweds.

"Charlie," the young wife was saying to the new pup. "I'm sorry I scolded you last night, but your feet were terribly muddy."

And She Believed Him.

"Hubby."

"Yes, my love."

"You used to seem glad when I telephoned you at the office, but when I called you up today you were as cross as an old bear."

"That was only a pose of mine, Angela."

"Oh?"

"Our confounded office boy was grinning so I had to conceal how delighted I really was."

Overestimated Them.

"A man should stop every now and then and take stock of himself," remarked the philosopher.

"I don't agree with you," said the pessimistic person.

"Why not?"

"It is impossible for a man to remain always twenty-one. And that is about the only time in life when taking stock of himself is apt to give him any considerable amount of satisfaction."

Rapid Progression.

"Well, sir?" said the judge, sternly. "Me an' my wife had some words, your honor," began the prisoner, "an' one thing led to another."

"What do you mean by that?"

"You see, sir, she started by throwing the salt shaker at me. Then she shied a few cups an' saucers, then a few plates an' wound up by hitting me over the head with the coffee pot."

TIGHTWADDO.

She—I understand that young De Pinch has been operated on for appendicitis.

He—Yes, it's the first time anyone was known to get anything out of him. But you see they had to give him chloroform to get that.

Playing to the Galleries.

"Senator Bluffum seems always anxious to fight the battles of the people."

"In a strictly oratorical sense, of course."

"Oh, yes. He represents a constituency who believe that the more noise he makes the harder he is working to protect them from his unscrupulous associates."

The Way of It.

"Does your suburban neighbor raise his own vegetables?"

"No; he comes in the night and hits me."

POULTRY FACTS

FUMIGATION OF MUCH VALUE

Not Only Destroys Lice and Mites in Poultry House, But Also Kills Lurking Disease Germs.

Every fall, if not oftener, the poultry building should be thoroughly fumigated, not alone to destroy lice and mites, but to kill disease germs which may lurk in the cracks between boards and in the dust that collects on the timbers. The easiest method is to use the sulphur candles made for the purpose and sold by dealers in poultry supplies. If these cannot be obtained easily, flowers of sulphur, which may be obtained at any drug store and which is the finely powdered form, may be burned on live coals or with paper.

If coals are used a pan half full of sand and dirt may be set on the floor of the house, a shovelful of live coals put in it and half a pint of flowers of sulphur placed on the coals. If it is not convenient to use this method, a layer of lightly crumpled paper may be placed on the sand in the pan, some flowers of sulphur sprinkled on, then more sulphur until four or five layers are made, with sulphur on top. This may be lighted at the bottom and if it burns well, will fill the house full of fumes. The contents of one pan will fumigate a house ten to fifteen feet wide and twelve to fifteen feet long. For a long building several pans must be used at the same time.

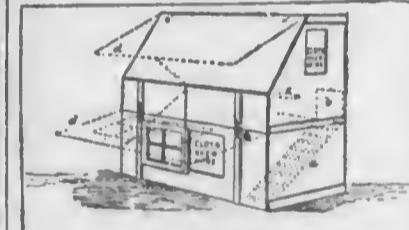

All windows and doors should be kept closed while the sulphur is burning so that the fumes will be confined and will penetrate every part of the house. The house should be kept closed for an hour and then may be opened and aired. In another hour it will be fit for the fowls to use again.

CONVENIENT FOR HEN FLOCK

Piano Box Affords Means of Providing Comfortable Quarters for Chickens in Winter.

For a small flock of fowls a piano box makes a very convenient poultry house. It can be worked over in many different styles. Usually the affair is made only one story high. This is not as economical of space as the double story house illustrated here-with. Such a house will command itself to those having very limited space. The second floor is placed about a third of the way up from the lower floor. It may be made removable so as to be readily cleaned—simply fit loosely on four or more supports, such as brackets. The lid, d, should fit snugly over the frame and be easily raised by means of hinges. The fowls can reach this floor by walking up the incline, a.

A trap door, b, fits over the opening so the fowls may be confined in the upper floor when necessary. C shows the position of the roosts. These should be on treatles about 18 inches high and be readily removable. D shows the hinged fronts which may be raised or lowered at will. At each end is a window covered with wire cloth. In the front is a glass window and also a wire cloth window. The whole poultry house should be covered with roofing paper to keep off the wet. The trap door, b, should be fastened up by means of a string or a wire which passes through the back of the house, and to be attached to a nail to hold it open.—Orange Jude Farmer.

OYSTER SHELL IS NECESSARY

Matter of Economy to Keep Plentiful Supply of Sharp Grit Before Fowls at All Times.

Many feed oyster shells and believe that this is all that is required in the line of grit. Oyster shell is necessary for the welfare of the hen, supplying lime that goes into the formation of egg, shell and bone, but it will not altogether answer as a substitute for grit, for the reason that it is too soft. Experiments have proven conclusively that it is a matter of economy to keep a plentiful supply of good sharp grit before the fowls all the time.

When fowls are not supplied with grit much of the food eaten passes through their bodies in an undigested state. Besides, the lack of grit throws an undue strain upon the digestive system, resulting in liver and bowel trouble.

Indication of Indigestion. The strictly healthy fowls do not have bowel complaint. Looseness of the bowels in fowls is simply an indication of indigestion, or derangement of the digestive organs.

No Males Needed. The egg flocks need no males as it never pays to keep them where eggs are prepared for market use only.

DON'T BE MISLED

Hopkinsville Citizens Should Read and Heed This Advice.

Kidney trouble is dangerous and often fatal.

Don't experiment with something new and untried.

Use a tested kidney remedy. Begin with Doan's Kidney Pills. Used in kidney troubles 50 years. Recommended here and everywhere.

The following statement forms convincing proof of merit.

T. B. Redd, Cadiz, Ky., says: "Too frequent passages of the kidney secretions caused me annoyance and I had to get up five or six times during the night. I had an intense pain in my back and hips and I could hardly straighten after stooping. I was subject to dizzy spells. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me in a month and restored me to good health. I hope that other kidney sufferers will profit by reading my experience."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Redd had. Foster Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

HARD TO HIT.

"I'm prepared to have my character blackened in a good cause," said the candidate.

"Hear! Hear!" shouted one of his staunch supporters.

"Yes, my friends, I expect a great deal of mud to be thrown in my direction."

"Don't worry about that," cried a man in the rear of the hall. "They won't be able to hit you. Nobody knows where you stand in this race."

A lazy liver leads to chronic dyspepsia and constipation—weakens the whole system. Doan's Regulets (25c per box) act mildly on the liver and bowels. At all drug stores. Advertisement.

With a Human Sparrow.

There are few worse nuisances than the man who plumes himself upon his sociability and makes a sacred duty of talk. He is a sort of human sparrow, a bird from whom you get neither song nor silence. To keep up a perpetual game of verbal shuttlecock (which he calls conversation) is with him a condition of existence. His aphorism is not cogito ergo sum, but loquitur ergo sum; and so, lest he should cease to be, he will be talking.

For baby's croup, Willie's daily cuts and bruises, mamma's sore throat, Grandma's lameness—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil—the household remedy, 25c and 50c. Advertisement.

No Room for Them.

"Isn't there a notion that spirits walk the earth on Halloween?" "Yes," replied Mr. Groweher. "But they don't. None of them would dare take a chance on meeting the small boys who have taken charge of that particular date."

At this time, when we are marking, during this sale, all kinds of merchandise at the lowest prices that will be named this winter, and when the manufacturers are advancing prices by leaps and bounds owing to the millions of dollars worth of merchandise now under contract for the warring nations and the heavy demands of the South American countries for American products, has created the greatest scarcity of merchandise ever known or anticipated by the business men of the United States.

CLOTHING!

There is a scarcity of woolens for suits and overcoats made by the American Woolen Mills and other large manufacturers devoting their plants to making army blankets and heavy woolens for the soldiers in Europe. In consequence woolen materials have advanced in price and are still advancing. The suits we offer are all wool Cassimeres, Cheviots and Worsted in Grays, Browns and Black; hand tailored, well lined and will be sold under a strict guarantee of being all wool. But we must make room for spring goods, hence these prices:
